the remaining four, including Ponkapoag, under the supervision of colonists. Over the next 100 years, while Ponkapoag remained an official entity, the loss of self-determination and privatization of collective lands led to the gradual intermixing of native and settler populations in the area.[4]In 1726, Stoughton, Massachusetts, split from the large original territory of Dorchester; then on February 23, 1797, Canton was officially incorporated from the territory of Stoughton. The name "Canton, was antipodal to it.[5] This is not possible, since they are both well north of the Equator; they are, however, about 2 degrees from being antipodal in longitude, ignoring latitude. In addition to being a prominent Canton citizen, Elijah Dunbar was the first president of the Stoughton Musical Society in the United States.[7]Paul Revere built the nation's first copper rolling mill in Canton in 1801. His poem entitled Canton Dale expresses his affection for the town. Canton was the location of the Rising Sun Stove Polish Company, founded by Elijah Morse, a wealthy merchant and creator of the pot-belly stove. Annually each spring, and as necessary, the voters gather to discuss matters such as zoning, schools, public works, recreational facilities, the budget, taxes and bond issues. Property taxes on residential and other land, buildings and improvements, and transfers from the state government, are two important sources of revenue for the town. The Select Board currently filled by John J. Connolly (Vice-Chair), Michael C.
Loughran (Clerk), Patricia M. Boyden (Member), Christopher M. Albert (Member), and John R. McCourt (Member), and the board and oversees all town services and responsibilities controlled by the board. They act as the key liaison between elected officials, municipal departments, and the community. The current Town Administrator is Charles E. Doody.[28]The Planning Board approves a town wide master plan, and statutorily provides recommendations to Town Meeting regarding zoning and development. The Finance Committee studies the financial affairs of the town, advises and makes recommendations to the Town Meeting on the budget and other areas with fiscal implications and serves as the fiscal watchdog for the voters. Canton maintains an Executive Office, responsible for maintenance and implementation of all policies and procedures, updating the administrative code and all legal, personal and town wide planning matters. The Executive Office consists of: Town Administrator, Human Resources, Town Counsel and Town Planner. [29] For public safety needs, the Town of Canton is protected by the Canton Fire Department and Canton Police Department.
Michael W. Morrissey and the Norfolk State Police Detective Unit are located in Canton. [31] There are two fire stations in Canton Police Department was officially formed in 1875, with four men working limited part-time hours. In 1900, the first Chief of Police was appointed and served in the role for 11 years. A motorcycle officer was added in 1928.[33]In 1978, Elizabeth A. Galvin became the town's first female police officer. [33]In May 2004, a new police station was opened in the former Eliott School building on Washington Street.[33] The original reconstruction project cost $5.9M to renovate the 150-vear-old building and then required additional repairs shortly after the grand opening, when the floor began to buckle due to weight. [34]In June 2022, Helena Rafferty, was sworn in as the Deputy under retiring Chief Ken Berkowitz, who had been in the role since 2005.[35]In November 2023, residents voted for an independent audit of the Canton Police Department due to the ongoing investigation into the Karen Read case involving the 2022 killing of John O'Keefe, an officer in the Boston Police Department. The vote was passed by a 903800 margin during a Special Town Meeting held on November 20, 2023.[36]
